The Folly of Flirting

The Man Flirt Is Never True to Any Woman—Sensible Women
Dennis Hinn
By Beatrice Fairfax

THOSE who take the name of Love lightly; those who make declarations in the moonlight they have no intention of upholding in the searching light of day; those who cheat and lie in the game of hearts, will as surely be some day overtaken by punishment as if they had been dishonest in a manner more amenable to the law.

Those who use hearts for playthings will some day realize that their own hearts are being battered about. Flirtation is a spoon with nothing in it, and something worse—it is a double-edged weapon, and he who thinks to wound others finally hurts himself more grievously.

It is a silly practice that becomes a habit. The boy who can't look at a girl without making eyes, develops, unless he is careful, into that most detestable of all creatures, a man flirt. He ogles in his youth to the amusement of the sensible, and ogles as he grows older to their eternal disgust.

The Trifler.
The man flirt is never true to any woman. He is never a good business man. He is never a hard worker. He is never among those who are respected and revered. If, when in a bank, he makes eyes at the stenographer, the vigilance given his bank account is doubled. His word is never as good as his bond, and, though he may have a good brain, just so long as he winks and stares and smiles at every pretty girl, he is believed to be addled-pated.

Men scorn him, and women—the same, sensible kind—disdain and despise him. The mother recalls with a pang that when she was young and impressionable she admired and believed him, and she watches him when he approaches her daughters as if he were a venomous insect.

He is the blighting parasite on the female heart. He is the degree of sweetness that sickens and nauseates. Incapable of feeling any sentiment, the tragedy is that he is not incapable of inspiring it.

The Future's Promise.
When a girl reaches 15 there comes with longer skirts and more mature ways a longing for love, and when at last a man appears bearing it in his

BY OLIVETTE

I SENT this chic little chapeau on the left for early fall? It is of white satin, or supple felt, and is a "flower-pot" shape, with a band of self-material finishing at the edge. Draped about the high crown is black velvet. Two wide loops flare up in front, and a softer loop descends across the crown. The home milliner will find this hat very easy to copy—and the expense won't be very great. Twenty-five cents for the flower-pot foundation shape, a dollar for the yard of black velvet cut on the bias. This velvet may be cut in three strips, which can be stitched together invisibly. Another quarter for millinery wire and lining, and for three dollars you have a smart and unusual little "first" hat.

The evening gown of pale lemon brocade is rather startling waist and fish-tail train. The top part of the gown itself takes the form of a princess dress cut with blousing with blousing waist and fish-tail train. The top part of the bodice is a dainty kimono of fine maline lace and ivory chiffon. Under this shimmers a pale apricot ribbon, which is laid across the chest and under the arms. Over the dress and joining the "V" neck is a long coat of palest apricot chiffon, which falls to the bottom of the skirt with no opening for the arms. This cape-coat is edged with an applique of dull gold and pink roses, with leaves of green gold. Under this trimming the chiffon coat tightens into a few folds at the back.

Behold a hat, on the right, the "home milliner" can never hope to manufacture! Of tulle du monde velvet is the smart shape which scoops over milady's right eye, turns smartly up at the left side and the back and arranges itself in a soft, "near" Tam o' Shanter crown. And of the same wonderful smoky dark brown shade is the great cascading spray of paradise, that extends across the back. The price? Oh, it can be done for one hundred and fifty dollars, if milady does not demand too generous a mass of the frothy paradise in her crown!

Practice, "sees his sweetheart in everything he looks at." He sees her so continuously, so clearly, so surely, he does not know there are other women in the world. For him no other woman exists.

FOREST SERVICE OFFICE IS MOVED

Mountain Headquarters During the Winter Will Be at Alamogordo

Cloudcroft, N. M., Sept. 19.—Supervisor R. F. Balthus has received authority to move the office of the Forest Service to Alamogordo during the winter months. The office will be maintained in Alamogordo during the winter and in Cloudcroft during the summer in future. This change will go into effect Oct. 1.

H. M. Denney has left for El Paso, where he will be for several days attending to business matters.

Jim A. Alexander and M. J. Green have left for Mesquite Indian reservation and White Mountain section on a camping trip for a week or 10 days.

Mrs. Chalmers McConnell and Chalmers, Jr., returned from Santa Fe. Mrs. C. S. Wood accompanied her daughter, Miss May, to El Paso, where the daughter will enter school for the winter.

Jess J. Holden, of Alamogordo, is in Cloudcroft visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Jay F. Knox, who has been spending the summer in Cloudcroft, has returned to her home in El Paso.

Mrs. and Mr. C. B. Eads, who have spent the entire summer in Cloudcroft in the "Molt" cottage, have returned to their home in El Paso.

Mrs. Alice Lendrum, who has been spending some time here has left for San Francisco, Cal.

Nearly all the summer visitors are leaving Cloudcroft. Only a very few families are now left on the south side.

BISBEE EAGLES GO ON TRIP TO DOUGLAS
Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 19.—More than 500 Bisbee Eagles, Fairies and their friends, accompanied by a band, left for Douglas to attend an entertainment tendered them by the Douglas series at the baseball park. The special train arrived here at 8 o'clock in the evening, being met by 300 members of the Douglas lodge, headed by the Ninth cavalry band.

FUNERALS OF TWO SOCORRO MEN HELD

Socorro, N. M., Sept. 19.—The funeral of district attorney John E. Griffith, who died here Wednesday, was held today in the Episcopal church. The Masons attended in a body.

The funeral of Col. Ethan W. Eaton was held from the Knight of Pythias hall and was conducted by that lodge. Rev. Mr. Harwood, of Albuquerque, preached the sermon, and the local members of the lodge took part in the services at the grave. Practically every store in town and the school of mines closed during the hour of the funeral.

During the coming year the students of the School of Mines will meet each Monday in Assembly hall at which time they will be addressed by some member of the faculty on some topic of interest to the school as a whole.

Good Time Now for Blood Health

Blood Disorders Gone to Stay.
A few doses of that wonderful blood purifier, S. S. S., will start activities in the cellular tissues of the body and soon show decided changes in the skin. The skin is but a fine network of tiny blood vessels, and the specific action of S. S. S. is declared to be a pronounced stimulation of the activity of these cells. Certain it is that in a surprisingly short time any skin eruption shows a most remarkable change; it begins to dry up; the skin scales off in tiny flakes, and soon a layer of clear, healthy and firm tissue results. The reason for this is in the peculiar stimulation of S. S. S., which enables the cells in the skin to select from the blood the nutriment it requires for regeneration.

You can obtain S. S. S. at any well stocked drug store, if you are given up, but be sure you are not talked into something "just as good."

S. S. S. is prepared by the Swift Specific Co., 180 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write for their illustrated book on skin diseases.

WOULD ELIMINATE LIQUOR QUESTION FROM CAMPAIGN
Austin, Tex., Sept. 19.—That the liquor or prohibition question should not be the paramount issue in the next gubernatorial contest, is the opinion of state senator T. H. McGregor, of Travis county. Senator McGregor announces that he will at the proper time make a series of speeches throughout the state to convince the people that it is time to drop the liquor question and turn to other matters which he considers of much more importance. Senator McGregor is a possibility for the governorship, but he has not yet committed himself.

DANCE AT MINE.
Lasca Mines, Sierra Blanca, Tex., Sept. 19.—A dance and barbecue was given by the mines people and all danced on a large platform erected for that purpose. Music was furnished by the Sierra Blanca string band. The dance was largely attended by Van Horn, Hot Wells, Finley and Sierra Blanca people.

WEED COUNTRY HAS HEAVY FROST AND ICE

Weed, N. M., Sept. 19.—Heavy frost and ice visited this section this week, killing late corn and garden stuff.

A. Bertsch has successfully raised tobacco at an altitude of almost 8000 feet. This season he has about 100 pounds of fine leafed Havana and ivory coarser "General Grant." The tobacco grew very rank and had to be topped at the height of five feet. It had no insect pests or tobacco worm to contend with.

Lillard Johnson entertained his friends with a dance that was well attended.

E. Krause has returned to El Paso, after an extended visit at his ranch. While there he repaired the buildings that were wrecked in the cyclone.

A. O. Olden is up from Austin with a load of melons and sweet potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pattison have returned from Cloudcroft where they went to place their baby under the care of Dr. Warren. The baby is some better.

DROUTH BROKEN IN DALHART COUNTRY

Dalhart, Texas, Sept. 19.—The long drouth that has prevailed in the Dalhart country has been broken by a steady rain, fell for several hours. This section received but little of the general rains that fell last week throughout most of west Texas and New Mexico. The recent rains are sufficient to produce an abundance of grass on the ranges for winter grazing.

The Dalhart county grand jury has adjourned, after a session lasting only four days. Only one indictment was found.

A union revival is in progress here, conducted by Judge Thompson of San Angelo.

HOLD NEGRO TROOPER ON A DOUBLE CHARGE

Bisbee, Ariz., Sept. 19.—Charged with assault on Jesse May McCauley and Lucy Hogan, negro children, aged seven and eight years, William Stewart, a negro, was bound over to the action of the superior court under bond of $5000, after a preliminary hearing before Judge High. Stewart could not supply the bond and was returned to jail.

Stewart is a trooper of the ninth cavalry, stationed at Naco. He made frequent trips to Lovell on leave of absence and on Saturday afternoon it is alleged he committed the crime.

BOWIE IS FARMING BY "DRY" METHODS

Scientific Soil Cultural Products to be Shown by Cochise Delegate at Great Tulsa Congress.

Bowie, Ariz., Sept. 19.—J. H. Jaque, secretary of the Bowie commercial club, has received his official appointment as delegate for Cochise county to the Fifth International Dry Farm Congress to be held at Tulsa, Okla., October 22 to November 1.

Mr. Jaque is the original promoter and builder and real estate man of Bowie, and has built up the San Simon valley around Bowie from a cow range to a rapidly developing agricultural district.

There is considerable acreage planted this year by the recent homesteaders who had knowledge of dry farming, and, considering this is the first year's efforts, wonderful results have been attained by purely dry farm methods.

It is now clearly demonstrated that on this higher mesa around Bowie, good crops can be raised with the natural rainfall of July, August and September; however the homesteaders and settlers are sinking wells and installing pumping plants for a slight supplemental irrigation. Only one irrigation will be needed; this to get crops planted, started and rooted a little earlier than the regular rainy season.

Mr. Jaque is notifying all the farmers of the San Simon valley to prepare and bring in samples of purely dry farm product—corn, beans, fruit, melons, cantaloupes, pumpkins, kaffir corn, milo maize, sorghum, cotton, flowers or anything in the farming line, which he will assemble, box and ship to be displayed at the Dry Farm congress.

"Clincher" Paint
We know a paint which holds to the wood like a driven nail. Seasoned lumber is porous. The pores are the empty sap-cells. White lead paint, which dries on the wood in the form of a solid, elastic film, fastens into these pores, and the whole coat of paint is actually riveted like armor-plate to the surface it decorates and protects.

COLLIER & SOUTHERN WHITE LEAD (DUTCH BOY PAINTER TRADE-MARK) AND PURE LIN-SEED OIL

make the paint that spreads into a solid body. It becomes a part of the wood itself—an outer layer that preserves the life of the lumber.

We sell it as well as other painting requisites. Come in and have a talk with us about painting.
